TWO CENTS

QUESTIONNAIRES BEING MAILED TO FIFTH DISTRICT REGISTRANTS

Ten Per Cent Mailed to Men
Between 19 and 36
Inclusive

FOR THE NEXT TEN DAYS

A telegram was received by the local draft board at Donora on Wednesday from the state draft headquarters at Harrisburg, with reference to the mailing of questionnaires to registrants who signed up for military duty on the 12th of September.

According to the directions from the state board, the local board is directed to send questionnaires to 10 per cent of all registrants between the ages of 19 and 36 inclusive for the next ten days, beginning with Wednesday. Acting on these instructions the board of the Fifth district began yesterday to send out the questionnaires, mailing the first ten per cent to registrants of the first ten per cent to registrants of the district. The mailing of the questionnaires under these instructions will be completed on the 28th, after which the board will likely be in receipt of other instructions with reference to the balance of the registrants. The board estimates that it will be necessary to mail out 340 questionnaires each day for the next ten days, which number will embrace all of the men between the ages designated.

In the meantime the questionnaires which will be mailed this week will be their return journey to the local board early next week, at which time the classification of the registrants will be taken up and pushed as rapidly as possible, that men may be available for subsequent calls for service.

CARNIVAL DOES NOT SHOW AT MONESSEN

The Farari carnival company, which was to have given exhibitions at Wireton during the present week, under the auspices of the Home Defense Police of Monessen, has cancelled its contract and gone to Altoona. The management found it difficult to transport its heavy wagons from Donora, where it was compelled to unload, to Monessen, and rather than undergo any unnecessary risk in the way of damage, concluded to make an amicable adjustment of the contract, and leave for another location. This was done and the company is on the way to Altoona, where it is scheduled to appear.

Mrs. Charles Seals and son, Billy of Crest avenue have returned from California where they spent several days with her parents Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Lamb.

GIVE ASSISTANT POWER OF SUPERINTENDENT

At a convention of the school directors of Donora, held last week, Prof. A. J. Martin was formally elected assistant superintendent and had conferred upon him the duties of superintendent during the absence of Prof. Gilland, head of the schools, who is now in the United States military service. The board also elected four teachers for the present term in place of four who had been elected and signed up, but who took positions elsewhere in other lines of work.

SHOWS BRAVERY
UNDER HEAVY FIRE

Rev. Mandeville J. Barker of Uniontown, Pa., has been commended for valor by the commander of the Brigade to which he is attached as a Y. M. C. A. worker, according to word just received by the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. Going out ahead of the machine guns during an attack in the Aisne sector, he dressed the wounds of American and German alike, at one time being hit only twenty yards distant from a German outpost, from which he was hidden by a slight rise in the ground. "This is the kind of muscular and gallant Christianity that the soldiers like," said one officer in speaking of the "Y" man's service under fire. The Rev. Barker developed his presence of mind and courage while a varsity football and baseball player at Hognin College. He was born in England and after receiving his A. B. at Hobart was a divinity student at the Episcopal Theological Seminary, Cambridge.

Following his graduation at Cambridge he was soloist in leading churches of Boston, Pittsburg and Chicago, a fter which he became pastor of the Episcopal church in Uniontown, Pa. He is a man of athletic physique and can be described as "a good mixer." Major T. N. Vail of Harrisburg, Pa., was in command of the machine gun detachment which went in advance of the infantry in an attack on positions at Glennes. They went ahead and opened an enfilading fire that carried the day. Capt. John Wasres, of Scranton, Pa., led one group that got into some of the hottest places.

Out in front of them toiled the Rev. Barker, working along on his hands and knees and finding plenty of call for his bandages and dressings. The clergyman came upon one German, wounded in the leg, who was limping toward his own lines. Though unarmed, the "Y" man halted him and bandaged the wound of the man, who was grateful enough to let the good Samaritan make his getaway back toward his own lines.

Preparing For The Publicity Campaign

W. B. Patterson, local chairman of the Fourth Liberty Loan drive in Charleroi, was in consultation with the publicity secretary of the county, John L. Stewart, of Washington, yesterday. A number of newspaper men from this immediate section of the valley were also in attendance with a view of discussing the publicity campaign for the drive. It is proposed to make this feature of the campaign very prominent, as only three weeks are allotted to the sale of the bonds, during which time the various committees throughout the country will be expected to dispose of about double the amount of bonds sold in the third campaign. The advertising feature will not alone be conducted through the newspapers, but likewise by posters and in various other ways, all of which are designed to draw attention to the big campaign, which promises to be most intensive. Mr. Patterson is shaping up his work and getting everything ready for the local work, which is going to be quite heavy in view of the fact that Charleroi's quota will be at least double that of last spring. However, with efficient assistance he anticipates that our community will respond nobly and go over as it did the last time.

FEWER AUTOS ON LAST MONTH LIST

Decline in the number of new automobiles put into service in Pennsylvania is indicated by the August statement of the automobile division of the State Highway Department which shows receipts of $80,082 as compared with $82,699.50 for the same month of 1917. This is the first month outside of November or December in recent years when a big drop was shown.

The total revenue from motor vehicle registration for 1918, however, is well ahead of 1917. To September 1st the registration had produced $3,960,544.50, or $812,386.50 more than in the same period of last year. There have been 354,000 pneumatic-tired vehicles registered, this class having the greatest increase.

HOW TO JOY RIDE
ON A SUNDAY

Method No. 1
Select a position at the street corner, hold up your hand, wait until the trolley stops, get on, pay your fare and go the limit.

Method No. 2:
Dig up the baby buggy, put on baby's best bib and tucker (on the baby, not yourself) put baby in the buggy, fasten your hands to the pushing apparatus and—you're off.

Method No. 3:
Haul out the old easy chair, paper, pipe, slippers, book and gently propel your comfy self from one shady nook to another on the front porch.

SURE THING.
If the railroad companies had been permitted to raise the price for hauling freight and passengers slightly, we might not now be paying almost double rates.—Belle Vernon Enterprise.

ADDITIONAL TARIFFS ON MOTOR TRUCKS

Notices have been recently posted calling attention to an increase of rates on the Mercantile bridge, between North Charleroi and Monessen. The new tariffs apply only to trucks and classify them as to ton capacity and load. Foot passengers, street car passengers and pleasure vehicles are not affected. Some concern was caused when the advertisements first appeared, for the reason that people had come to expect almost anything in the way of increased cost of living and traveling.

DONORA PLANS TO SAVE ON LIGHT BILL

A plan whereby the borough of Donora can economize in the use of street lighting current and save approximately $1,200 a year has been worked out by Burgess Cox, an authority on electricity and unless the West Penn Power company consents to make the needed changes the Fuel Administration will be appealed to by the borough authorities, says the Donora American.

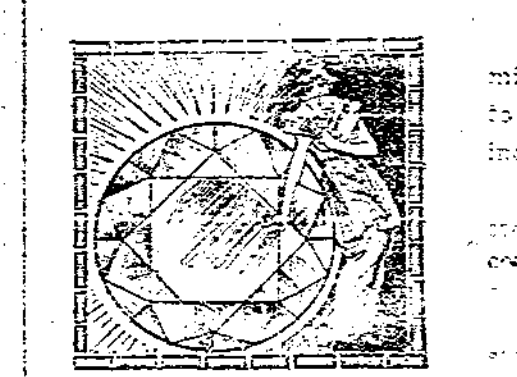

Last week a conference was held between the borough solicitor and Burgess Cox, representing the borough, and a representative of the contract department of the West Penn Company. The conference was the result of a request from the borough that the company reduce the candle power of certain street lights. The action was taken by Burgess Cox, who was recently requested by the Fuel Administration to take some action looking toward the economizing of street lighting.

The representative of the West Penn company declined to make the changes on the ground that the contract was recently made, specifying certain lamps and that the continuance of the contract was necessary in order that the company realize on expenditures made when the present system was installed. The borough representatives contended that the reduction of load would reduce the consumption of fuel besides saving money for the borough.

This argument was refuted by the West Penn representative, who said that economy in current was needed in the day time and was not an important item at night. When he was told that the borough would carry the matter to the Fuel Administration unless the request was granted he promised to take the matter up with the higher officials and notify the borough of their decision later.

L. W. Morgan, Former Cop-erator, Is Taken By Death

ONE TIME PROMINENT FIGURE

Lewis Whittaker Morgan, aged 57 years, died Monday night at 11 o'clock at his home in California from infirmities of old age. Mr. Morgan was a pioneer resident of California, and had always been a man interested in the welfare of the town and the normal school. He was a very active member of the board of trustees of this school for 46 years, and devoted very much interested in the work of the institution. He was a devoted member of the Methodist Episcopal church and was the Sunday school superintendent for 25 years, until his advanced age compelled him to relinquish his duties.

Mr. Morgan was born in Waynesburg in 1830, and was one of the pioneer business men of California, having been in business for more than 50 years, and only a few years ago sold his store. For many years he was a coal operator, being a member of the firm of Morgan & Dixon, and at one time owned the steamer L. W. Morgan. This boat was later purchased by other interests and the name changed to the George Shiras, and later to the Sailor, now owned by the Vesta Coal company. His coal operations were confined to mines in the vicinity of California, and for many years he was a familiar figure in coal circles. He retired from that business a number of years ago and in later years confined himself to mercantile pursuits. Mr. Morgan saw the development of the coal business in the Monongahela valley, from the days when the "broadhorns" floated down the river, to the introduction of the steamboat as a power for handling the larger tows of barges, which came in later years. When he was active in business a mine that could produce a large of coal daily was regarded as the acme of industrial perfection, and had indeed attained to enviable distinction. Mr. Morgan was one of the early coal operators in the Fourth pool, and did much to bring this part of the valley to the favorable attention of outside capitalists, which eventually resulted in the greater development of the coal business in this section.

Funeral services were held this afternoon in charge of his pastor, Rev. W. C. Weaver, with interment at Highland cemetery. Out of respect to his memory the normal school closed two hours this afternoon.

He is survived by his daughter, Miss Elizabeth Morgan at home, two sons, P. W. Morgan of Wilmerding, and A. T. Morgan, of Pittsburg, and three grandchildren and two brothers.

Miss Dessie Blaker and Miss Mary Williamson left Thursday for the University of Bucknell at Lewisburg, Pa.

THE GERMAN VAMPIRE

The German empire, better known as the German vampire, embraces 208,320 square miles, but not a single square mile, says the Brooklyn Eagle. It comprises four kingdoms, six grand duchies and 34,000 grand fiefdoms.

In outline and inclination it is like a large, irregular, rounded triangle. On the north it is bounded by the allied fleets and on the west by the allied armies.

The principal waterways of Germany are the Rhine and the Keil canal. The high seas under its control are confined to the opera house. The Keil canal is used for exercise by the bottled ships on pleasant Sundays.

The seaboard, greatly restricted, like all other kinds of board, is known as the high cost of living. The country is not entirely on the level. It has in the interior a large table land, entirely empty. There are also deep depressions in all parts of the nation.

Berlin, the capital, was established in the thirteenth century on the Spree river. It has not yet recovered. The inhabitants are divided into two main classes—junks and junked.

The present follower is Kaiser Billions II. His principal occupation is looking for a place in the sun. There is something warmer than that in store for him. It sounds something like Heligoland. The crown prince is the barely apparent.

The national motto is: "Spurio versenkt."

CLOTHING WANTED.

The American Red Cross, in response to the plea of Herbert Hoover, chairman of the commission for the relief of Belgium, has gladly consented to collect an additional five thousand tons of used clothing for the Belgians and the opportunity is welcomed by the Red Cross of the United States to render such a needed service. The date set for the campaign is the week of September 23-30, 1918. The minimum allotment for the Division of which Charlevoi is a part is 400 tons.

A generous allotment will be assigned to the Charlevoi Chapter, with instructions as to the plans of the campaign. It is pointed out that the last campaign of this kind for the Belgians was somewhat disappointing, this Division failing to meet its quota, while others exceeded theirs. The officials of the Division hope for a more generous response to this second appeal, that all quotas assigned to various Chapters be exceeded.

FOOT TROUBLES

ARE EXPLAINED

H. P. Shingley, of the educational staff of the Sholl Manufacturing company, who is with Claybush & Co., has been demonstrating the correction of foot troubles, gave a very interesting lecture to the Junior class of the Charlevoi High School.

Mr. Shingley gave some very timely advice about the care of the feet and pointed out the danger of wearing tight shoes and stockings. It is only in the last few years that shoe men have known anything about the anatomy of the feet or were able to make any practical application of that knowledge. Today shoe men all over the country are being trained in the practical anatomy of feet, and as a result shoe-fitting is becoming almost professional and the science of the correction of foot troubles has developed until it is possible to take a knarled, mal-formed foot and restore the natural bridges of the feet by simple mechanical appliances.

SMOKING PROHIBITED ABOUT RAILROAD PROPERTY

Because of the high cost of replacing property at the present time and the shortage of labor, the regional directors are issuing orders for special efforts to avoid fire losses on the railroads. With this end in view a strict prohibition of smoking where there is any danger of fire—on freight depot platforms, in record rooms, in shops and offices—has been issued by the regional director. Watchmen, guards and others in charge of railroad property are directed to see that these orders are carried out to the letter.

INVITED TO ATTEND REPUBLICAN GATHERING

A number of leading Republicans of Charlevoi have received invitations to attend the "Farm Party," to be given by Mayor E. V. Babcock, at Vosemary Farm, on the Three-Degree road in Allegheny county, on Saturday next in honor of Senator William C. Sprawl, Republican candidate for Governor. Other candidates for state office and representative Republicans from all western counties are expected to be in attendance.

WILD STEER CAUSES TROUBLE AT SCHOOL

A wild steer, which escaped from a drove of cattle being driven from Lock Four across the river to Wireton made considerable trouble for the pupils of the public school at Gibsonton last week. The animal was at large for several days, during which time it chased a number of children, as well as grown people who ventured in that locality. The animal was greatly feared by the children, and as a consequence attendance at the school decreased about fifty per cent. However, Monday night his capers were cut short by a bullet from a gun in the hands of one of a band of searchers that was looking for him. The carcass was taken to the slaughter house in a truck.

Fremont's Career.

The term "Patriot" was a complimentary nickname given John C. Fremont in the presidential campaign of 1896 in honor of his pathfinding explorations in the region of the Rocky Mountains. But he did not find the path to the presidency, receiving only 114 votes to 171 for James Buchanan.

No Experience.

A kindergarten teacher was telling the children in her department about sparrows; concerning their ways and habits. Among other things she said: "The sparrows eat up the worms. Now children, which would you rather have, worms or sparrows?" "I've never had sparrows," piped up a "day boy" near the front.

Quarter of Billion for Hats.

It has been estimated by the military chamber of commerce that the expenditure for hats in the United States is more than $200,000,000 a year. This would average something over $5 per capita for women and girls of all ages.

TOWN HAS HISTORIC PAST

Macombe, Popular English Summer Resort, Has Been Well Known Through Many Centuries.

Macombe is rapidly becoming popular as a summer resort, or, as the English call it, a watering place. It is set on a steep hillside surrounded by trees and shrubs, on the beautiful Devon coast. From the near town of Ilfracombe, a narrow path leads to a mass of white cottages, clinging desperately to the hillside to keep from tumbling into the Atlantic ocean.

Many people think that Ilfracombe is a modern town, in spite of its quaint name, because it has such an up-to-date appearance. But Ilfracombe is a stiffly antiquated town, having been a harbor of some note way back in the twelfth century. This attractive town has been indicted with a great variety of jaw-breaking names during the centuries of its existence. Its names range all the way from Aelfriccombe and Ilfordcombe to Alfredcombe, and, at last, Ilfracombe. But the good folk round about Ilfracombe just call it "Conabe."

In 1211 Ilfracombe was one of the 45 English ports that sent representatives to the council of shipping, and in 1245 it was captured by Fairfax. They say there were some hot skirmishes at that time in what is now known as "Bloody Meadow." Some cannon balls of that period found here corroborate this tale.

In these olden days wrecks near Ilfracombe were frequent, and pearls and other valuable treasures of the Indies were often sold to advantage by the fisher folk to merchants in neighboring towns.

SEA BUFFALO "GOOD EATING"

Other Things Beside the Beefsteak, to Which the Nation is Attached, May Be Made of Use.

Sirloin of sea buffalo is much esteemed in San Francisco and other Pacific coast cities, where meat of this highly valued animal is coming to market in such quantities as to lower the cost of living by keeping down the price of beef and mutton.

Sea cows and sea horses have long been familiarly known, but most folks would confess themselves unacquainted with the sea buffalo. If they saw one, they would call it a whale; and no wonder, for that is the sea buffalo's other name.

Some people might be prejudiced against eating whale meat, but sea buffalo steak sounds good. It is good—quite equal, in fact, to the best beefsteak, and hardly distinguishable from the latter. In the market, sea buffalo tenderloin (boneless "filet") costs only 15 cents a pound; other cuts are cheaper.

The gray whale (common in Pacific waters) furnishes most of the meat. A 60-foot specimen will yield as much butcher's material as 70 head of cattle.

First Quakers.

The first Quakers to land on American soil were Mary Fisher and Ann Austin, who reached Boston in 1636 after a long voyage from England by way of the West Indian island of Barbados. The two women caused great consternation to the Puritans, and George Bishop, in an address to the magistrates, said:

"Two women arriving in your harbor so shock ye to the everlasting shame of you and of your established order, as if a formidable army had invaded your borders."

The Quaker sect, or Society of Friends, was founded by Fox in 1648, about eight years before the first members reached America on July 11, 1636. Later George Fox visited America. The part played by William Penn and other Quakers in the early history of Pennsylvania and New Jersey is familiar to all students of history.

Can Shyness Be Cured?

What is the remedy for shyness? What is the shy man to do in order that he may be shy no longer?

The remedy is simple, and is to be found by consideration of the cause. The shy person is shy in the presence of strangers only. Let him have no opportunity of meeting strangers, and let the opportunity be abolished not by abolition of the meetings, but by abolition of the strangers. In other words, shy persons are those who in early life had not practice and no experience in meeting strangers, and so having the attention of strangers directed to them and attracted to them. If the meeting with strangers becomes customary it loses its strangeness.

As a Gentleman!

Little brother accompanied his mamma on a visit to some friends in Chicago, and included in the entertainment of the visitor was a luncheon at one of the fashionable cafes. Little brother was taken along because there was no place to "check" him.

"Now, brother," said mamma, "you see this beautiful place and all these lovely ladies—you are the only man present, and I want you to be very polite and act just like your father would if he was here."

"Well," said brother, "I guess I'll take a cigarette."

Enterprise.

"How far can you travel on a gallon of gasoline?"
"Not as far as I used to," replied Mr. Chuggins. "But I'm hoping to reduce the expense by developing a by-product. The gasoline is so oily and the roads are so rough that with a little care we ought to make every trip hold a good churning of axle grease."

FIGHT ON HISTORIC GROUND

American Troops Operating in Country for Many Centuries the Scene of Wars and Revolution.

American soldiers during their brief stay in this country have been through ruins and over fields made familiar to students of history by centuries of wars and revolutions. Some of them have already fought on the site of some of Napoleon's operations in the region of the Marne.

Some are tracing over ground where the Normans fought the French and where the French fought the Spaniards. Later they will march on to the country where the French and the Germans have fought again and again and where they will help the French and the British end the last of the wars to devastate the valleys of France for centuries to come.

Nearly the entire history of France is pictured all over the areas occupied by the Americans in ancient churches, which, along with object lessons in history, will give the attentive soldier an enlarged appreciation of art and architecture.

Asked to what extent the men were profiting from these opportunities, an officer of the American forces said that, after getting located, the soldier takes the first opportunity to explore the neighborhood. To use one of the British terms that are taking root among the overseas men, they "push off" into all the nooks and corners. If their conceptions of what they see are often vague at first they soon get the habit of observation which develops into taste and, in a goodly number of cases, becomes a study.

TURNING RATS TO ACCOUNT

Japanese Authorities Anticipate Substantial Revenue From Leather Made From Hides of Pests.

In the neighborhood of Anzori, Japan, the hides of squirrels are tanned and used as carpets, neckties and for other purposes. This has suggested to Doctor Hasegawa Kiyonari, head of the Hasegawa hospital at Osaka, who is a member of the Osaka municipal assembly, the possibility of turning to good account the hides of the numerous rats bought by the municipal authorities. In view of the great advance in the price of hides and leather, Doctor Hasegawa approached the authorities with the proposal, which was favorably received. They accordingly tanned the skins of two rats and sought the opinion of dealers as to what the leather would sell for. The dealers estimated that the skin of one rat was worth 20 sen in its raw condition. The public health authorities are now devising special means of disinfecting and tanning rat skins.

It is estimated that a great sum could have been obtained by tanning the hides of one-third of the rats bought by the Osaka municipal authorities during the last twenty years.

To Pollyfox.

Put down a red mark to the senate's credit for introducing the word "pollyfox." Here we have pussyfooting with characteristics more subtle even than silence. If one pussyfoots, well and good; he does not disturb, and it may reasonably be argued that only those engaged in evil doing or suffering from nerves object to those who come upon one noiselessly.

The pussyfoot may have no objectionable purpose in pussyfooting. He may even be amply determined not to distract one engaged in pondering a painful problem, as whether it is better to earn an income and be taxed, or to escape both and play golf. But, as we understand it, to pussyfoot implies a sly purpose. An angel child possessed of a chunk of ice, with its lovely orbs fixed on the inviting space between his papa's neck and collar, will pussyfoot even if it never heard of the word.

There is much in the contemplation of politics which makes to welcome the verb "to pussyfoot."—New York Sun.

Well, That's Different.

While high-priced lawyers argued wrathfully for their clients over the ownership of a little white Eskimo dog, the animal in controversy was brought into court in a sack by a negro, dead. Instantly the contestants changed sides. This was at Atlanta.

"Give it to that woman there," exclaimed Mrs. M. M. Brazell, who had sworn out a possessory warrant for a Spitz dog before Judge L. Z. Rosser. "No, give it to her. I want her to have it," retorted Mrs. Anna Lee, who was contesting the possessory warrant.

The confused negro left the dog and retreated. Judge Rosser gave the dead dog to Mrs. Brazell.

Auburn, N. Y., has a seven-year-old messenger boy. Although retired from active work, he decided he could do some war service by taking some young man's place with the telegraph company.

"I have had some amusing experiences," he remarked recently. "I answered one call, and the man said: 'Are you from the Western Union?' I replied that I was. 'Well,' he said, 'I wanted a boy, not the president of the company.' There was another call to the St. Cloud and I went. The man said: 'Are you a boy?' But before I could answer another man remarked facetiously, 'He was when you called.'"

LOCK FOUR WILL

ERECT HONOR TABLET

The citizens of Lock Four are preparing to honor the men from that community who have entered the military and naval service of the United States, and as a preliminary to the erection of an appropriate tablet, are issuing every citizen of that community to furnish the names of members of their families who are now in the service, and the branch in which they are serving. This information is to be left at the principal's office at the public school building, Lock hill. The committee in charge requests that these names be furnished as promptly as possible, and that no one be missed. It is hoped to erect the tablet sometime in October, preparations for which are now under way. Citizens can greatly aid the undertaking by promptly furnishing names of the men of the community who have answered the call and who are now serving with any one of the units either in the military or naval branch of the United States.

GASLESS SUNDAYS

MAY BE EXTENDED

The Fuel Administration has announced there is a possibility that its automobileless Sunday request may be extended to cover the entire country. Such action will depend, the administration said on the ability of mid-continent refiners to supply the territory west of the Mississippi and at the same time furnish the gasoline they have agreed to deliver to the Atlantic seaboard. Refiners are canvassing the situation with a view to determining if they can provide for both demands.

Although the exact amount of gas saved in the territory east of the Mississippi in the last few Sundays since the request was made cannot be determined, the administration estimated it at 413,000 barrels, which added materially to the reserve available for shipment overseas.

FAIL IN ATTEMPT TO ENTICE MEN

A man giving his name as O'Donnell, together with a confederate were in Mt. Pleasant last week and asked permission to show a two-reel picture at one of the theatres in that town. At the request of Burgess Stevens the owners of the theatre had the picture thrown on the screen.

The picture depicted the advantages of living in Gary, Indiana, and was nothing more than an attempt to get people to move to that place and find employment. Attempts to entice laborers from one state to another is a violation of the Federal law and the men were ordered out of town and the picture forbidden to be shown in the town.
